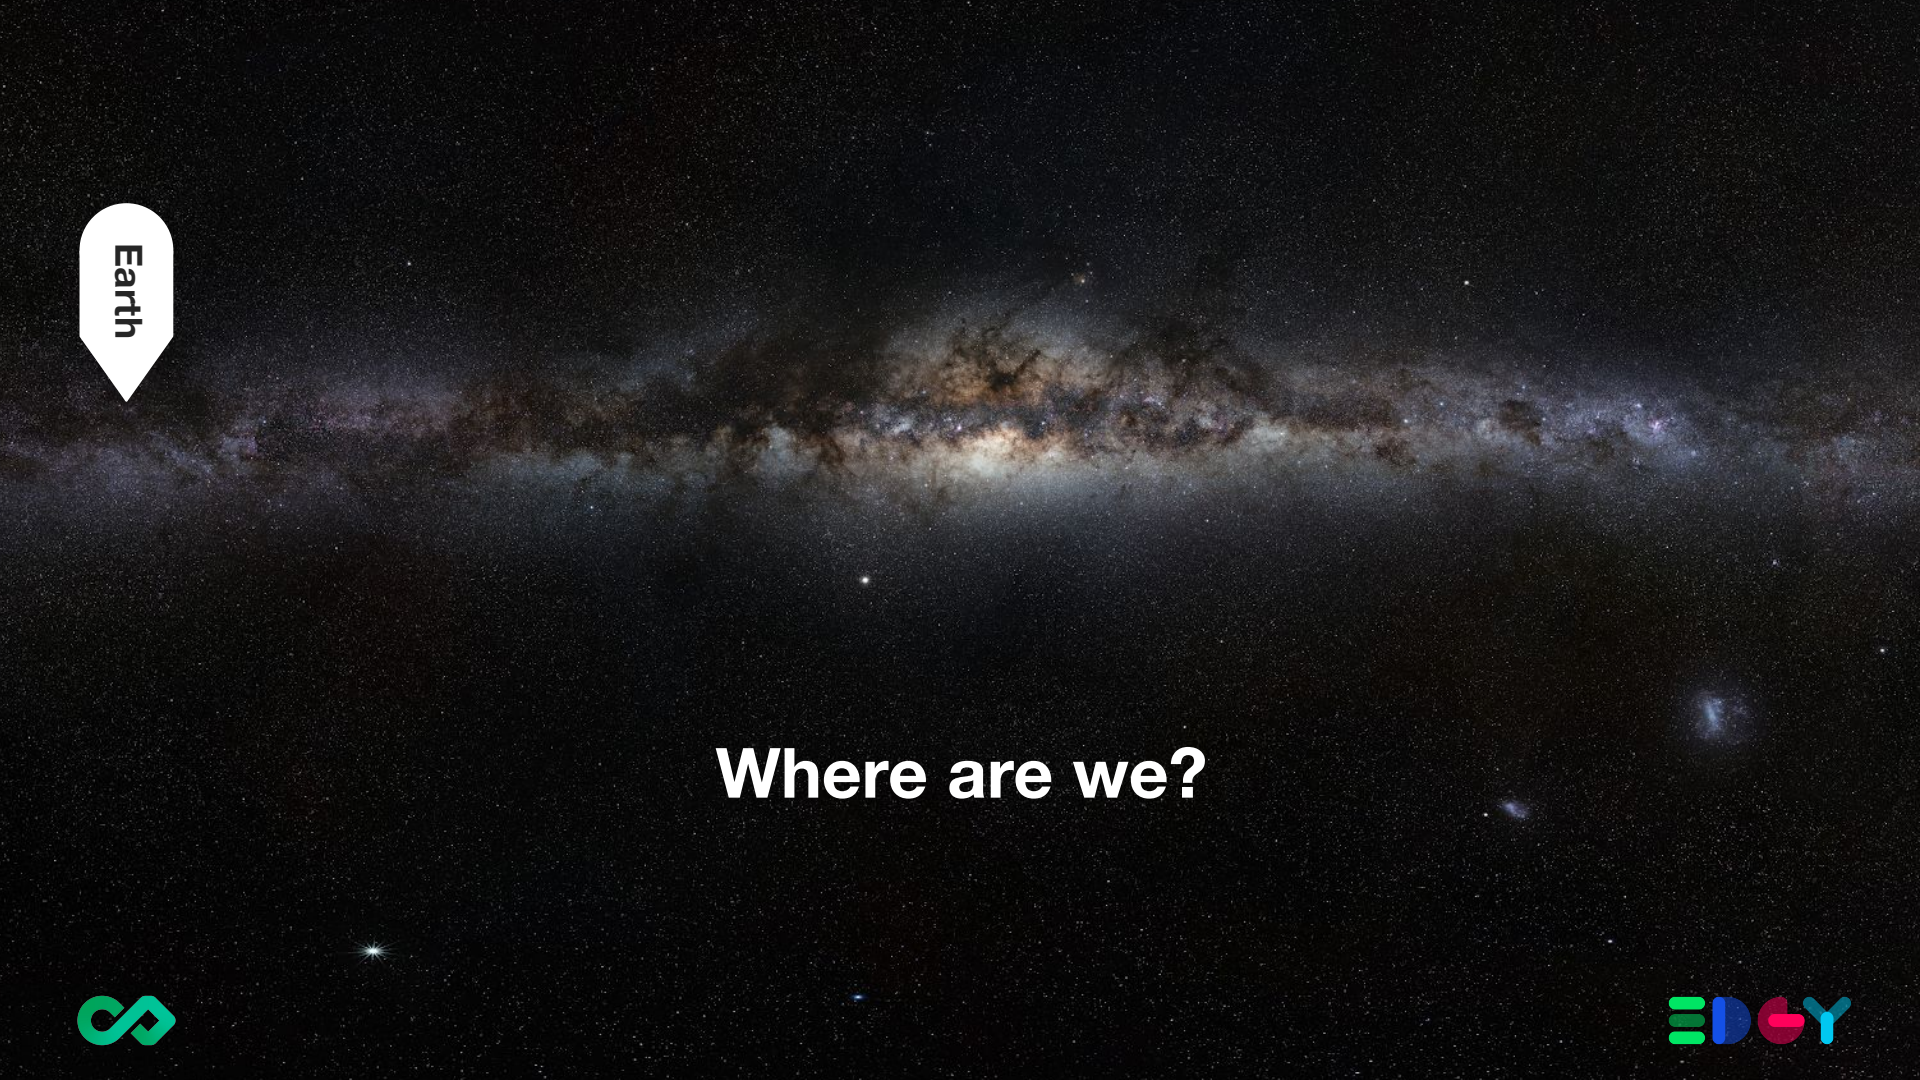
1 Why a geography?

2 Reading a map

3 Making a map



Earth
Where are we?

bla bla bla...

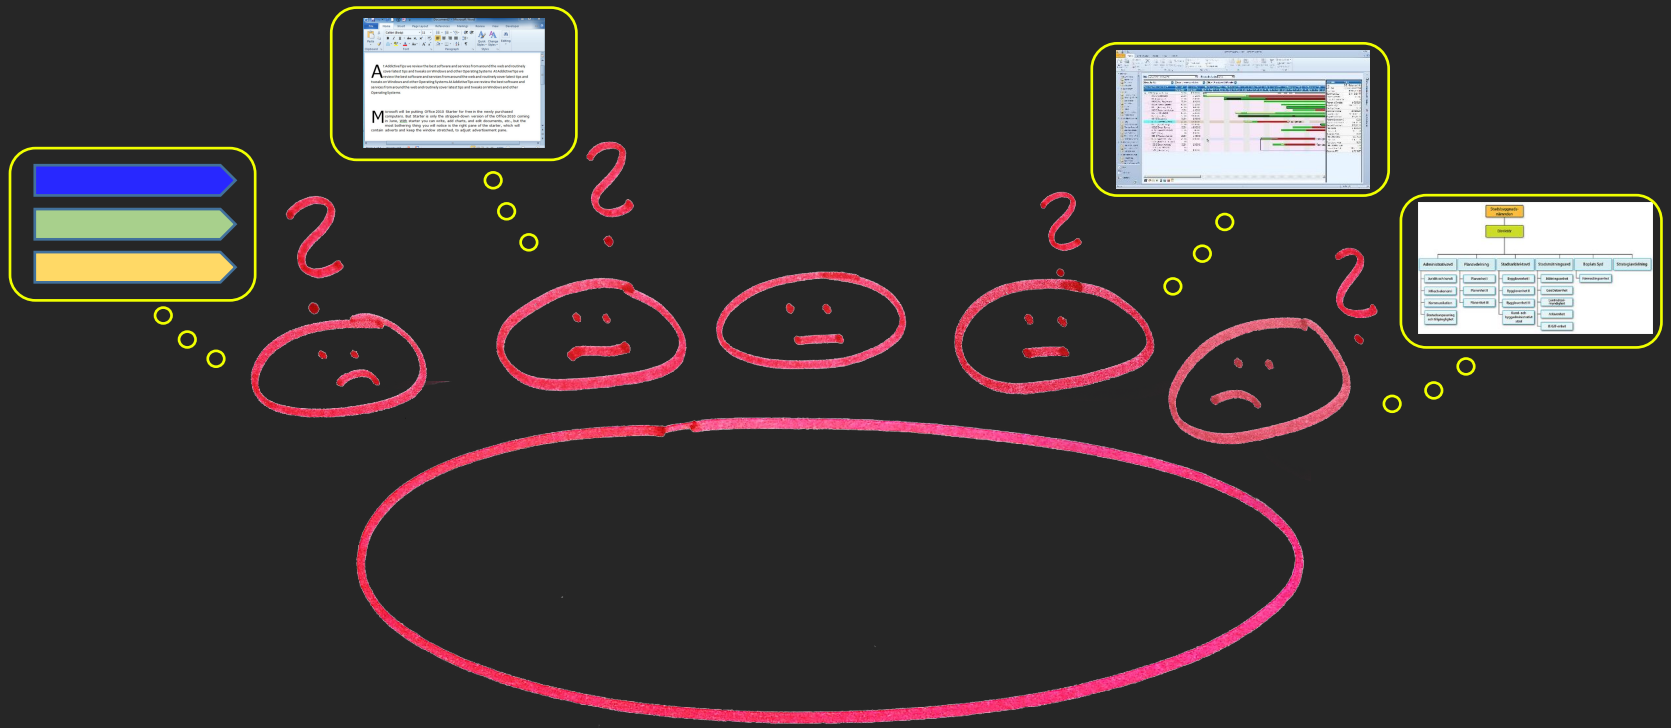
What are we really talking about?



What about other mental models?

We all start from the same model!

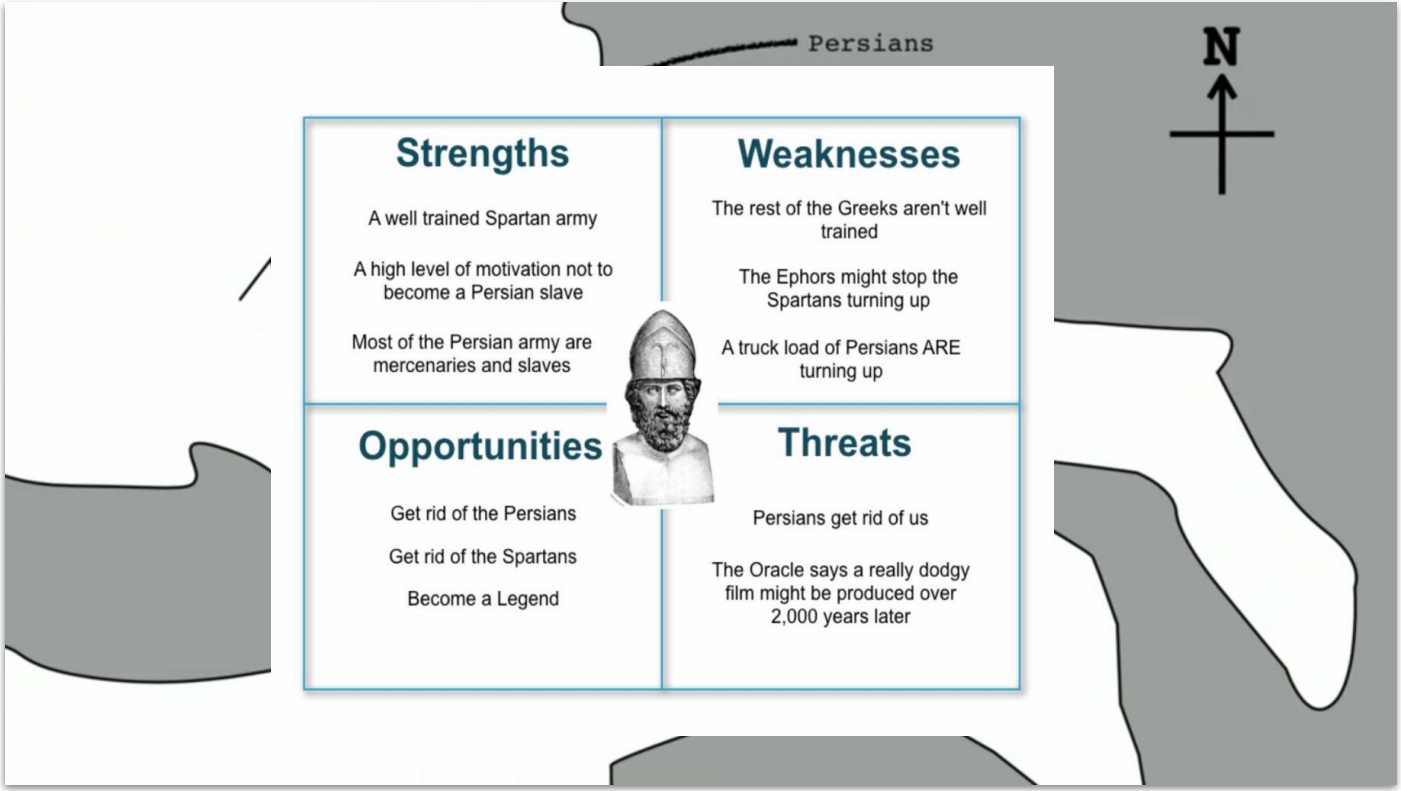
What is a map?



Persians
N
Strengths
A well trained Spartan army
A high level of motivation not to become a Persian slave
Most of the Persian army are mercenaries and slaves
Weaknesses
The rest of the Greeks aren't well trained
The Ephors might stop the Spartans turning up
A truck load of Persians ARE turning up
Opportunities
Get rid of the Persians
Get rid of the Spartans
Become a Legend
Threats
Persians get rid of us
The Oracle says a really dodgy film might be produced over 2,000 years later

CYCLE

The center of model called the Hub describes the complete lifecycle of the product. The inner part is split in two cycles (divided by thicker black lines) and each cycle consists of phases (divided by grey lines). The bottom area is where supporting capabilities are shown.

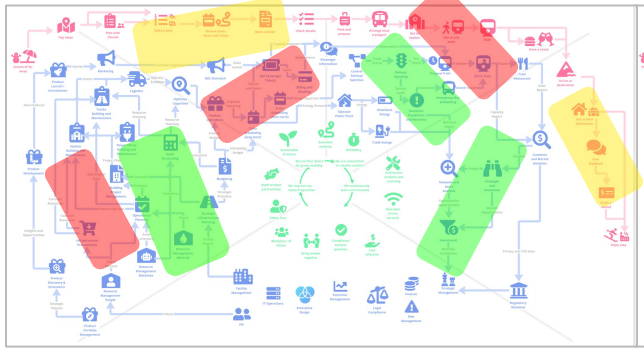
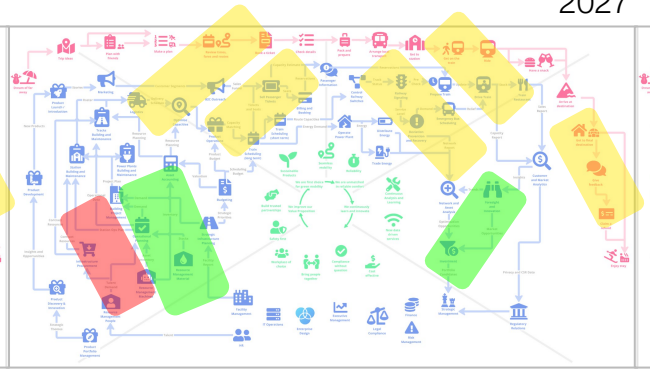
Roadmap for a transformation ambition

Today



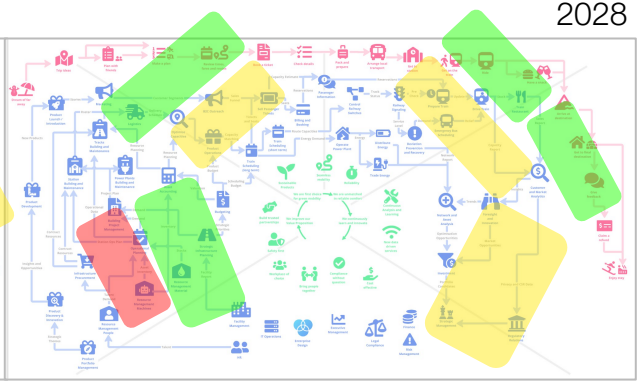
Focus on the Customer Experience during their journey.

2027



Broaden the focus on the Customer Experience to before the journey. Start to improve the internal processes to better support the new experience.

2028



Keep focus on the whole Customer Experience and improve the internal processes to better support the new experience.

Using EDGY's Illustrated Style with icons or simple visuals makes this map more than a technical diagram: it becomes a clear, appealing, and fun tool that people actually want to work with. This style encourages engagement and helps teams quickly recognise the parts of the enterprise they know, making it easier to have productive conversations about change.

Instead of drawing another process model, the Overlay View creates a base operational map and adds layers of information: teams, assets, metrics, or projects. This allows users to filter, compare,
